

facebook

Subscribe

YouTube

POLISH CINEMA

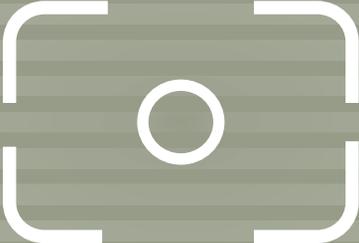

FOR BEGINNERS

Agnieszka Jambor

 A white battery icon with a green bar inside, indicating a full or high charge level.

Agnieszka Tambor PhD, assistant professor at the Institute of Arts Studies at the University of Silesia in Katowice. Co-designer and assistant director of the International Polish Studies degree course (to Bachelor and Master level), aimed primarily at students from abroad. Has worked for many years in the University's School of Polish Language and Culture. Head of the preparatory year for students who want to study in Polish; also a programme manager of the Polish Language and Culture Summer School. Lecturer on the postgraduate program in Teaching Polish Culture and Polish Language to Foreigners – which is offered in Katowice itself and in Rome, Berlin and Dublin. Exam manager and examiner for entrance exams for foreigners who want to study in Polish at the University of Silesia. Also participates part in workshops for teachers of Polish language working abroad e.g. USA, Canada, Kazakhstan and China. Has worked on two multimedia projects for teaching Polish – Europodians (the programme was designed for learning European languages (inc. Polish) via computers, i-pods, mobile phones and Slavic Network. Author of many articles on Polish cinema and language teaching, and books e.g. The Polish Film Shelf. 100 Polish Movies Every Foreigner Should See, The Polish Film Shelf. Short Animations and Feature Films in Teaching Polish as a Foreign Language, (Un)usual Polish (texts in context), Counting on Banach (textbook for mathematics, physics, chemistry vocabulary in Polish) and the first textbook of its kind for teaching Polish to Chinese speaking students.

 A white camera icon with a central lens and a viewfinder frame.